City offers to remove snow from in front of the driveways of disabled residents

Chesterfield is initiating a Driveway Apron Snow Removal Program this winter to assist disabled and physically challenged residents in the removal of windrows that accumulate in the front of residential driveway aprons after snowplowing operations.

Windrows are created when a large amount of snow from the street rolls off the edge of the plow blade and accumulates at the base of the driveway apron. During significant snow events, windrows at the base of residential driveways can become quite large, re-freeze, and sometimes be difficult to remove.

Driveway Apron Snow Removal operations will begin ONLY after completion of all snow and ice removal operations on public streets and at City facilities. The snow accumulation from the driveway apron must exceed two inches during any single snow event and will be measured in accordance with National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA) guidelines. The program is designed to provide an additional service to qualifying residents in order to provide better access for emergency situations.

Have Mercy!

Chesterfield will have it in '15 as first phase nears completion

124,000-sq.-foot Virtual Care Center expected to open in middle of 2015

The Mercy Chesterfield Health Campus continues to take shape on 43 acres southeast of the Clarkson Road and Interstate 64/ Highway 40 intersection.

Mercy broke ground on the first phase of the development in May, and the Virtual Care Center (VCC) is expected to open in mid-2015. This four-story, 124,000-square-foot building is the first of its kind in telemedicine and will accommodate nearly 400 caregivers, who will provide care 24 hours a day, 7 days a week via audio, video and data connections to locations across Mercy's network. The VCC will serve as a hub for promoting telemedicine through research and training.

The cutting-edge campus also will house an orthopedic hospital, corporate headquarters, and office buildings. All buildings are designed to engage the natural setting and be integrated into the landscape to preserve as much of the existing 43-acre site as possible.

If you have questions concerning this project, contact the Planner of the Day at 636.537.4733 or pod@chesterfield.mo.us.

Mayor's Message

Chesterfield should strive to be the healthiest city

Well, it is late October as I write this message for our quarterly newsletter, and I want to wish each and every one a happy holiday season!

We have had a busy and exciting year and are looking forward to another great year in 2015 that will see an even better quality of life for our Chesterfield residents. With that in mind, I am relinquishing my privilege for this newsletter issue to my wife, Louise, who, as a health care professional, has developed a keen insight into an area of our lives that can perhaps help many of us. Her message is self-explanatory and needs no further introduction:

From Louise Nation

Bob has graciously allowed me to write this newsletter to let you know about a potential undertaking. This has been a banner year for me. Though I've always been an exerciser, this year I was introduced to a phenomenal trainer at a well-known Chesterfield facility that offers fitness classes. My particular instructor does whatever he can to help people get in shape, and for the first time ever, I've lost weight, toned up, and feel great. This experience got me thinking – what if every Chesterfield resident was inspired to do something to make him/her healthier? What if we could attempt to make Chesterfield the healthiest city in America?

As a nurse practitioner at Chesterfield's own St. Luke's Hospital, I care every day for people who are admitted for one problem, but often have other problems, some of which the patient is not even aware. Many of these problems are preventable, and they often lengthen or complicate a patient's hospital stay. Everyone knows that today's medical care/health insurance is incredibly expensive. Anything a community can do to help its residents get healthier is a positive move.

When Bob and I went door-to-door campaigning to hundreds of homes, we learned how intelligent and well-informed Chesterfield residents are. That's why I'd like to try to inspire each and every resident to do something to get healthier – maybe resolve to walk for a half-hour instead of watching TV, maybe lose five pounds, maybe take a CPR or fitness class, or maybe eat more fruit and vegetables. All of these ideas are very do-able goals! As we get closer to a New Year, let's band together as a community and make something positive happen!

Though the goal would be to inspire each person in Chesterfield, there are many things the city could do to help. Some suggestions include biggest loser contests, articles in the newsletter, subdivision and workplace programs, organized walks on the trails, etc. But for these ideas to get off the ground, we'll need an army of volunteers. Your response will determine if things happen. If you are the least bit interested in helping yourself and/or your neighbors and business associates, if you are willing to discuss ideas, make phone calls, write an article or you just have a desire to participate, I need to hear from you! Don't be shy – I work full-time, so I need your help! No particular expertise is necessary, just enthusiasm, effort, and a little time. If interested, please e-mail: gethealthy@chesterfield.mo.us and let's hear your ideas to help make Chesterfield one of the healthiest cities in America.

Sincerely,

Chesterfield will get more bus stop shelters

The City of Chesterfield and St. Louis County have jointly approved, via the Valley Transportation Development District (TDD), funding the entire cost for the purchase and placement of bus shelters, at multiple locations currently served by Bi-State/METRO.

Bi-State/METRO will, in turn, provide the in-kind services needed to complete this project, including site evaluation/analysis and design of the shelters, preparation of bid specifications, review of proposals, and award of contracts for the purchase and installation of these shelters.

The agency will provide construction supervision to ensure compliance with all local, state and federal laws. This is a WIN-WIN-WIN for everyone involved and will ultimately result in shelter being provided for those who depend upon Bi-State/METRO to get to and from their jobs in Chesterfield.

Work is expected to begin as early as next spring.

If you're happy and you know it read this story

Movoto Real Estate recently ranked Chesterfield as the second happiest place in Missouri!

Our great city came in as the best in terms of safety, the lowest violent crime rate and in first for its high percentage of residents with a bachelor's degree or higher – 64.2 percent.

The rankings were established for each Missouri city with a population of at least 25,000 from data collected by the 2010 U.S. Census, the 2012 FBI Uniform Crime Report, and walkscore.com.

The happy criteria was based on stress factors (including unemployment, commutes, and cost of living), personal safety, household income, percent of married residents, home ownership, percent of residents with a bachelor's degree or higher and walkability score.

In a St. Louis County sweep, Kirkwood finished first and Ballwin third.

Tips for clearing snow from driveway entrance

Clearing snow from the street frequently results in blockage of driveways that you've worked hard to clear. Many times during a snow event, a snowplow truck will go by and fill in the end of a freshly cleared private driveway with snow from the roadway.

We know that this can be very frustrating, but snow must be plowed from the centerline of the street to the curb, and City crews are unable to remove snow windrows from 16,000 private driveways in Chesterfield.

To help reduce the size of the windrow of snow across your driveway, you can clear an area of the street gutter 10 to 15 feet in advance of your driveway. In doing this, you create a "pocket" for the snow to drop off before the plow reaches your driveway. Please be extremely careful when working next to the roadway, especially when snowplowing operations are in progress.

Snow removal

In order to qualify for this program, Chesterfield residents must live in a private, single-family residential home and have a diagnosed medical condition preventing them from removing snow from their driveway. To request this service, residents must complete three forms: Participant Information Form, Physician Confirmation Form and Participant Release Form, which are available on the City's website, chesterfield.mo.us/forms-and-permits.html under the Public Works drop down menu.

Applications must be received at least two weeks prior to a snowstorm to allow for application review and processing. This program will be implemented on a one-year trial basis and may be discontinued. If you have any questions, please call the City of Chesterfield Department of Public Services at 636.537.4762.

Don't be wrong dealing with public right of way

Did you know the area between the sidewalk and curb is considered public right of way? Any construction or physical disturbances within the public right of way, including sprinkler systems, invisible fences, the planting or removal of trees, and driveway replacements, require a permit from the Public Services Department.

If a street is not bordered by a sidewalk, the public right of way is typically considered the area within twelve feet of the back of curb.

Movable objects, including basketball goals and decorative landscape boulders, should not be kept in the right of way. If you have questions regarding an object in the public right of way, please call 636.537.4762.

City receives conservation award from National Wildlife Federation

Leading a nationwide trend in community action to address wildlife habitat loss, the City of Chesterfield was recognized on its 10th Anniversary of becoming certified as a National Wildlife Federation Community Wildlife Habitat. NWF President Collin O'Mara presented the award at a special ceremony at City Hall in September.

To become an NWF Community Wildlife Habitat, the city, town, county or neighborhood must make a commitment to become a wildlife-friendly by creating multiple wildlife habitat areas in backyards, schoolyards, corporate properties, community gardens, parkland and other spaces.

NWF Community Wildlife Habitats, such as Chesterfield, must also educate citizens about how to garden for wildlife in a sustainable manner and provide the four key elements for wildlife to survive – food, water, shelter and places to raise young. In 2005, Chesterfield became the ninth community in the country and the first in Missouri to become a NWF Community Wildlife Habitat.

“For ten years, Chesterfield’s work providing wildlife habitat has served as a model for communities across America,” said O’Mara. “At a time when wildlife is facing unprecedented challenges, I commend the leadership of Mayor Nation, the Citizens Committee for the Environment, and countless dedicated volunteers for partnering with the National Wildlife Federation to demonstrate that wildlife can flourish in a suburban and urban community.”

Invasive bush honeysuckle tackled at Faust Park

On Oct. 18, the Chesterfield Citizens Committee for the Environment (CCE), Boy Scouts of the New Horizons District, and Faust Park staff converged to battle invasive bush honeysuckle at the Grow Native! Demonstration Garden and the main entrance areas of Faust Park.

Bush honeysuckle grows so densely that other plants are shaded out on the forest floor, often leaving nothing but bare soil. This means a great reduction in the food and cover available for birds and other animals. Serious infestations can inhibit tree regeneration, essentially stopping forest succession.
